Swings Razor in Bus, Fined $25

Gaspare Lentini, a mild-appearing man of 60, was fined $25 in the Newton court on Monday for creating a disturbance in a Middlesex & Boston bus on Sunday night. Joseph Roth of South Natick, operator of the bus, testified that Lentini and his 11-year-old son boarded the bus at Natick. Gaspare had imbibed well but not wisely and when Roth went to collect a second fare at Lower Falls, Lentini, who lives in South Boston, refused to pay the boy's fare. The boy then paid his own fare. As the bus was proceeding towards Commonwealth ave., Lentini pulled an old, badly nicked razor, which he had found, from his pocket, and waved it around his head to the apprehension of several other passengers in the bus. Roth telephoned for assistance from a store at Commonwealth ave., after he had stopped the bus en route and remonstrated with Lentini. The latter dropped the old razor out of a window and Roth recovered it, Judge Bacon fined Gaspare $25 for his little diversion from his usual placidity.

Scouts at Camp Barker Go On Visit to Purgatory

The common victualler and liquor licenses of Lillian Cohen at 882 Walnut street, Newton Centre were suspended on Wednesday night by the Newton License Board. Members of the License Board have been making inspections of the many places in this city holding common victualler licenses to ascertain if these places are equipped to serve food, and if they have food on hand to provide meals. They visited the Cohen place on Monday evening and found it was not conforming to the conditions specified for common victuallers.

The License Board apparently is giving more serious attention to the matter of common victualler licenses than did the Board of Aldermen which had control over this type of license until a couple of months ago. Many stores in Newton have obtained common victualler licenses in the past which did net have facilities for properly serving meals.

Making Survey of Welfare Cases

Arthur McDonald, an employee of the State Department of Public Welfare is engaged in making a survey of cases receiving ald from the Newton Welfare Department. He started on this task this week after Mayor Weeks had requested the Department of Public Welfare bepartment of Public Welfare that it co-operate with the Newton Welfare Department in investigating questionable cases in the receipt of welfare aid, especially those cases of persons who reside out side of Newton, but who claim settlements in this city. Mr. McDonald was assigned to the Newton survey for the period from July 30 to September 8.

Mayor Weeks has issued an order which nullified the practice, started a couple of months ago of requiring men receiving extra aid from the city to work additional days. Some of the men working three days each week on ERA projects in Newton and whose aid from this source was not enough to provide for them and their dependents, had to work two more days for the city if they received $1.50 extra aid, or even less. As a result of the Mayor's order, any man receiving $1.50 or more additional aid, will not have to work any additional aid ay for the city, and any man receiving $1.50 or more additional, will have to work only one day for the city, in addition to the three days on the ERA project.

Interesting Facts About Rabies

Two Auto Accidents Newton Tax Rate Will Be Increased

Mayor Weeks announced on last Monday that the tax rate for Newton this year will probably be larger than that of last year, which was $24.80. He commented that Newton's tax rate had been lowered each of the past four years, during his terms of office, and is the lowest of any city in this State. He believes it will continue to be the lowest, as the tax rate of most cities in Massachusetts will probably increase this year. One of the principal causes for the increase was the large amount expended for the removal of snow and the sanding of streets last winter. This sum was $120,000, an increase of about $100,000 over the preceding winter. Announcement of the new rate will probably be made within the next week or two.

Shakers Claim There Is

Father and Mother Deity According to the Shaker records the outstanding feature of the religion is their belief in a dual God, both male and female, observes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Just as these two sexes exist throughout the animal and vegetable kingdom, as well as the human race, so too, the Shakers claim, there is a Father and Mother delty. For proof they quote this passage from the Scriptures:

"So God created man in his own image; in the image of God created he him; male and female created he ne him; male and female created he him." Genesis 1:27.

They believe the first appearance of the Lord on earth was through Jesus, the second in Mother Ann Lee, who founded the Shaker religion in England in 1749 with a group which broke away from the Quakers. She was the victim of much religious per-secution and fled to America with seven followers to organize the first settlement at Watervliet, N. Y. She died ten years later but had firmly established the doctrines of Shakerism through her "visions" from heaven.

The Shakers recognize two orders f people on earth. Those belonging the Adamic Order, who wish to marry and populate the earth, and the Spiritual Order, like themselves, whose members abstain from marriage as Christ and the Apostles did.

England's Dew-Ponds Are

Still Puzzle to Science "The dew-ponds of England, relics of pre-historic man, remain today one of the few practical inventions of that era," says the Illustrated London News. The mystery of the dew-ponds still remains; and men are wondering today, as they wondered centuries ago, how and whence the water comes that fills those lonely hollows on the highest hills. On the bleakest ridges of the Sussex Downs, far from shade of tree or protecting copse, where no streams have ever flowed, where no marsh has ever been, there, on those arid uplands, is the dew-pond with the water that never falls. Condensation of the moisture of the atmosphere it may be, cooling into drops that merge into the pond in the drops that merge into the point in the chill night air, and so counteracting the evaporation under the summer sun. Go when we will, at all seasons of the year, there is water for the cattle or the sheep that roam the green downlands.

The secret of the making of these ponds is known to but a few. The lime and flint to form the saucershaped bed, the layer of straw beneath the covering of clay, the final concrete surface, are all wrought with experi-ence and craft that are a heritage from the past, and then left to dry.

When a Ship Is Born

Owners of a new ship are sometimes at sea over the question of her cer-tificates. First they must secure the "Bullder's Certificate," embodying her measurements for tonnage as made by a board of trade surveyor, notes a writer in Tit-Bits Magazine. Then follows the task of drawing up their "dec laration of ownership," an imposing document stating their names, business, and number of shares, which has to be signed before a shipping master or commissioner of oaths and then handed to the registrar of ships at the vessel's proposed home port. He now writes out with due formality a "Certificate of Registry," giving the ship a number and approving of her name. With so many ships at sea, the name problem is not easily settled, an act of parliament forbidding a new ship to take the name of an existing one. But one vessel registered at Jaffna, a port in Ceylon, successfully avoided duplication. She called her self the Venayagasowpakialetchemy!

The people who live in different countries and speak different languages have different ways of saying "Good-by." The Turk will solemnly cross his hands upon his breast and make a profound obelsance when he bids you farewell. The genial Jap will take his slipper off as you depart, and say with a smile, "You are going to leave my despicable house in your honorable journeyings—I regard thee.' In the Philippines the departing bene diction is bestowed in the form of rub-bing one friend's face with one's hand. When you leave a Hindu he falls in the dust at your feet. The Fiji islanders cross two red feathers. The natives of New Guinea exchange choco late, the Burmese bend low.

Boomerang Armaments

Military forces sometimes face arpreviously sold to the enemy. During the war, 120,000,000 of German paten fuses for hand grenades were used by the allies, the British fleet used Ger the allies, the British fleet used German gunsights and Germany bought British copper through Sweden. In 1913, a company in France and a British firm in Constantinople supplied Turkey with the bullets which later mowed down the British and Australian troops in the Dardanelles,—Collier's Weekly.

SIX TEAMS ARE IN RUNNING FOR PLACE IN TWI-LEAGUE PLAYOFF

With but one week of the regular season remaining six teams continue in the race for play-off positions, only three wins and one less separating Auburndale and Y. M. C. A. tled for first place from Upper Falls, now in sixth position.

Auburndale dropped a close game to the Boys Club with "Porky" Murphy pitching his first game of the season for the latter club. Going into the last inning with a lead of 4-3 Houli-han pitching for Auburndale allowed two infield hits placing men on first and second. Murphy next hitter for Boys Club dropped a single behind first base on which Choquette scored from second and Doucette advanced to third. When the ball was returned to Houlihan, Murphy started for second base and Houlihan made a play for him trapping Murphy between first and second. However while this was going on Doucette ran home scoring the winning run and winning the game for Boys Club. Bud Gleason, star outfielder for Auburndale, was injured by a foul ball hit by himself and had to have several stitches taken over one eye.

Help Nash Sales The LaFayette car, the Nash entry The LaFayette car, the Nash entry into the low price field was accredited with having been responsible for a good part of the Nash Motors Company's improved sales position and with having been a contributing factor in enlarging the dealer organization, according to a recent statement made to stockholders and directors of the Nash Motors Company by C. W. Nash, Chairman of the Board.

Mr. Nash made clear that the LaFayette's contribution to these two important factors assured it a permanent place in the Nash Company's line of cars.

"The LaFayette," Mr. Nash said,

nent place in the Nash Company's line of cars.

"The LaFayette," Mr. Nash said, "is the Nash Motors Company's permanent entry in the low-priced field. We are in this volume production field to stay and the investment involved in launching the LaFayette should be definitely understood as one from which returns must be looked for over an extended period. The addition of the LaFayette line of cars to the very complete Nash line has already shown results in increased sales power for our dealers and has already enabled us to add 318 new dealers to our organization. Three times as many cars were sold during the first six months of the fiscal year as during the corresponding period of 1933."

SARAH J. COOLIDGE

SARAH J. COOLIDGE

Mrs. Sarah J. Coolidge, widow of John Henry Coolidge, LLB, formerly of Natick, died Monday evening, in her 86th year, at her home in Newton, where she has resided for the past fourteen years with her daughter, Mrs. Edward H. Keach, of 4 Pembroke st. She was born in Front Royal. Va., April 26th, 1849, the daughter of Joseph Green Downing, and Margaret (Frye) Downing, of Front Royal. The families were of English cavalier stock, and associated with the history of Virginia through all its developments from its early history, in records of public service. In each generation her ancestors were deacons in the Presbyterian Church in Virginia. She was brought up in the typical old southern home of the days before the Civil War, and like many other southern girls was an expert horsewoman. She and her family had many thrilling experiences during the Civil War. Her father was a prosperous merchant, prominent in public affairs, and a Grand Master of Masons.

After the Civil War the family spent their winters at Washington, D. C., and it was here that she met Mr. Coolidge, who was studying law at the National University. They were married February first, 1874, shortly after his admission to the District of Columbia Bar. About a year later they returned to Natick to live, at the urgent wish of his father, Col. Alexander Coolidge, and he was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar.

V. M. C. A. The NRA was started and has been operated, in theory, at least, to end unfair competition, to aid in restoring prosperity. Most of the retail stores in Newton services and markets are supposed to be operating under the NRA code. Citizens of Newton, as a means of helping themselves out of the depression, are supposed to patronize stores and other business ventures which co-operate with the NRA.

The NRA code provisions for food stores specify conditions as to wages and working hours. We have been informed that certain stores in Newton are not conforming to these conditions. We have been told of one large market in this city which is alleged to be not only violating the NRA code but also the State law regarding the hours of work for minors. We have observed at least two forming reserved to the NRA.

NO MORE FREE LAMPS

For many years the electric light companies gave their customers new lamps for those which were burnt out. The practice was one which was a service to the consumer and one which protected him from purchasing inferior bulbs and lamps which in the end proved of greater cost. On September first this service will be discontinued by the Edison Electric Light Company under a ruling from the Department of Public Utilities in order to bring about a half-cent per kilowatt hour reduction in the electric light rate. The reduction will be welcomed by the domestic as well as the commercial consumer. Figures indicate that it will mean a greater reduction to the latter because of the greater use in the average store as compared with the average dwelling. This reduction may likely prove to be of little actual saving, however, as the cost of replacing used lamps will act as an offset. The large investment, amounting to about two millions of dollars, which the Edison company has in light bulbs is to be amortized over a period of years. Such an amortiz-ation should eventually react more favorably to the advantage of the consumer than the present half-cent reduction. The discontinuance of the lamp exchange service is consistent with the methods being followed generally in the power and lighting industry and is, we believe, a step in the right direction.

NO STATE NRA LAW HERE

Returning from the governor's conference at Mackinac Island, Michigan, Governor Ely makes the assertion that Massachusetts will have no State NRA law. He further stated that Massachusetts now has on its Statute books the best features of the national program and that the undesirable features should be dropped as having no place in American life. This is one instance in which we are in accord with Governor Ely. The Governor claims that husiness recovery capacity he carrier with the ernor claims that business recovery cannot be certain until the Government halts its spending program and gives the nation every assurance of natural recovery. He further predicts that if the present course of the NRA were not halted it would lead to rigid State Socialism because "the essence of the NRA is government control of industry." We believe that the NRA has accomplished much of value in clearing up undesirable practices of sweat shops, in cut-throat competition, and conditions of employment, but we view with trepidation the undesirable features leading to governmental control as well as the huge features leading to governmental control as well as the huge burden of expenditure to be borne by future generations of

THE DEATH OF HINDENBURG

The death of President Von Hindenburg of Germany creates a situation which is troublesome to all Europe. The succession of Hitler to the head of the German Republic and the setting up of an absolute dictatorship was inevitable under existing conditions there. Commonsense and coolheadedness will do much to straighten the situation out, but unwise and hasty action in the troubled European countries will but lead to rioting and possible war. Time alone will tell the story of what future historians will write of the last half of the year 1934.

AND STILL IT GOES ON

During July there were nearly as many Massachusetts citizens fatally injured by automobiles as were put to death by orders of execution in Germany in suppressing the revolt there last month. The ruthless slaying roused indignation everywhere, yet it almost seems as though the attitude of the general public toward the automobile accident situation is one of complacence and indifference. We cannot refer too often or too emphatically to the necessity for every effort to reduce the auto accident casualty lists.

Possible Upset in Ninth Congressional

Let us come straight to the point. Congressman Robert Luce of Waltham, who has been holding public office ever since 1899, is in a very precarious position. There is a strong possibility that he will be defeated this Fall. His first task, of course, is to overcome possible opposition in his own party primary. I might as well be frank. Our Mayor, ever loyal to the man who fought side by side with his distinguished father, has given scant comfort to his numerous supporters, who have been most in sistent that he should throw his hat into the ring. They argue that Luce has been in Congress a long time—too long, so far as the Wets are concerned. They claim that he does not adequately represent our District; that he has made many enemies, and very few friends; that he has outlived his usefulness, and should give way to a younger man who is abreast of the times. Furthermore, the Mayor will be in a very delicate position politically if he delays much longer in making a start for Washington. No one seems to know when Luce plans to retire. There are even rumors that he may run for the Senate in 1936.

Now for a brief resumé of Luce's saintst Alderman Holden last fall, is Now for a brief resumé of Luce's a career. How many recall that he was a member of the Massachusetts House 1 of Representatives in 1899 and again a from 1901 to 1908. Michael E. Hennessey, in his excellent book, "Twenty-five Years of Massachusetts Politics," mentions the fact that Luce to came to Senator Lodge's defence in 1910, and challenged Governor-elect Eugene N. Foss to a debate on Lodge, the High Cost of Living, and G. O. P. policies in general. Foss declined. I This was a tribute to Luce, who even upon the second of the Now for a brief resumé of Luce's primary, it would appear that Luce has little to fear if Mayor Weeks stands his ground and declines to challenge him. No other sizable op-ponent has appeared in the field, though there is still time for a last minute entry.

Republican defection, particularly among the die-hard Wets, who insist

Several months ago the political situation in the ninth Congressional district was, on the surface, at least, peaceful. Within the past month, however, there have been numerous developments—many of them disquieting to the lethargic Republican constituency.

Let us come straight to the point. Congressman Robert Luce of Walter and Congress and Congressman Robert Luce of Walter and Congress and Congress ge, Well, let's give the nomination to P. Mr. Dietrick, and see what might hapen then. He would probably have a united party back of him, because no young Democrat, having his first fling, en would be so stupid as to bolt his party nominee. He would have everything to lose and very little to gain. It will not have full party support. In the election of 1932, 2509 votes turned the other way would have elected of the election of 1932, 2509 votes turned the other way would have elected be weaker than he was in 1932, and we won't get anywhere by kidding we were, prohibition is now a dead is sterling qualities will appear in a clearer light in a straight party fight in the November election.

The moral is this. Every loyal Republican in the Ninth District who desires proper representation in Congress must forget Luce's dry votes and everything else that detracts from his political attractiveness. Republical ast judicided ability, his long Congressional experience, his thorough knowled.

We come now to the November election. Can the admittedly powerful weeks machine command anything as well as in good years. We must like the full Weeks' strength for decide to retain in office a faithful, Luce? Certainly not. There will be conscientious, hard-working public Republicans defection, particularly servant. onal experience, his thorough knowl servant.

Sunday night we visited some friends who own a nice cat. We happened to mention the cat and our friends informed us that he had become quite thin from eating grasshoppers. This gave us an idea. There are millions of men and women, mostly women, who are very anxious to reduce. Why not imitate the cats and try a diet of grasshoppers? It might be difficult to start in on this kind of food, but, like oysters and olives, a taste could be acquired for them. And even if the obese persons did not eat the grasshoppers, they would probably lose weight in their efforts to catch the insects.

When the city officials and citizens of Waltham use some common sense and abolish the sounding of fire alarms by means of a horn which can be heard for miles, it is a safe bet that the too prevalent practice of pulling false alarms in that city will be largely diminished.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love. . . No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us" (I John 4:7, 8, 12).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "One infinite God, good, unifies men and nations; constitutes the brotherhood of man; ends wars: fulfills the Scripture.

Fly Is Wonderfully Made:

Eyesight Is Unsurpassed Eyesight is Unsurpassed Although a pest, the house-fly is wonderfully made, and when just out of the chrysalls, with the sun gleaming upon its wings, beautiful. It belongs to a class of insects known as the Diptera, which means two-winged files. If we examine it under a magnifying glass we see that on its head are two large compound eyes. This are two large compound eyes. This means that instead of having two eyes like most animals, each consists of thousands of tiny lenses. All insects have these compound eyes, and those of the house-fly can be divided up into 14,000 separate lenses. In addition to these, the fly has three more situated on ten ed the house-fly can be not the house fly the head.

on top of its head. On each foot, and it has six legs, there are two sharp claws, looking, when magnified, like the talons of a bird of prey. With these it is able to walk with ease over any rough sur-face, but it is also provided with moist pads which assist it to run up a window or wall, or walk upside-down on a ceiling. On its pads it picks up and carries all kinds of disease

It has two wings which vibrate at a great speed when in flight. Near the base of each there is a wonder-ful plece of mechanism, which is really its buzzer, consisting of two tiny drums .- Tit-Bits Magazine.

Sleeping Beauty's Castle

Sleeping Beauty's Castle
The ancestral castle of the Counts of Eltz is in Germany. High on a precipitous rock, rimmed with woods and hills, cloud-reaching with its towers and turrets, it is one of the truest to type, the type that dreamers conceive, when they see ladies fair and knights bold prancing homeward toward the end of a romantic day. The Sleeping Beauty is said to have lived in this castle, or rather that the author of the old tale wrote it after a visit into its grand hails. It dates back to the Twelfth century and has back to the Twelfth century and has seen many a battle waged about its walls. It might almost be said to be three castles in one, grouped about an inner court, and each of the three has its own entrance. Inside the walls are lined with the portraits of ancient worthles, armor and weapons. All the paraphernalla of legend-haunt-ed rooms surround the visitor—carved ed rooms surround the visitor—carved doors, old pewter tankards, heavy iron-bound chests, a wonderful dining hall and a massive table from which ventison and wine must have been often taken in merriment.

Greyhounds Liked by Nobility
The modern type of greyhound is a development from a form which arose

"Afri in western Asia before the Christian era and was adopted and esteemed in Syria, Egypt and Rome during the classic period. These dogs were tak-en by the Romans in their conquest of Europe and later became the favor-ite of nobility and were extensively used in falconry. The earliest notices of the greyhound in literature are those in Ovid's Metamorphoses and in the poem on hunting by Gracian. The greyhound was so highly esteemed that it was protected by the Salic, Burgundian and German barbaric codes, and Spelman is authority for the statement that at the court of Charlemagne there was a special offi-cer of the greyhound kennel.

Cultivation of Lemons

Lemons seem to have been unknown the ancient Greeks and Romans and Thirteenth centuries. In 1494 th fruit was cultivated in the Azores and shipped to England. As a cultivated plant it is grown throughout the Medi-terranean countries and in most tropical and sub-tropical regions.

Pigeon Roost Settlement

Wiped Out by Marauders What was known as the Pigeor Roost settlement in Indiana consisted of several families that made a little of several families that made a little community in what is now Scott county, says a writer in the Indianapolis News. This settlement, founded in 1809, was separated from any other by several miles, and was confined to about a square mile of territory. On September 3, 1812, it was attacked by a band of about twelve marauders, said to have been Shawnees who, scouring the locality, going from cabin to cabin, murdered within an hour twenty-two persons—sixteen of them scouring the locality, going from cabin to cabin, murdered within an hour twenty-two persons—sixteen of them children and five women. Prior to this general killing two men were shot in the woods. Most of the cabin homes were burned. A spirited fight in the house of William Collings, in which three Indians were killed, probably prevented a greater slaughter, as the check to the savages enabled the rest of the settlement to escape to the blockhouses that stood within a few miles. Several spectacular escapes have been recorded. The news of the massacres was carried to Charlestown, Clark county, and by 2 p. m. the next day, 200 armed men reached the scene, where only one house remained standing. They took up the trail of the savages, but never caught up with them. Two children were carried away by the Indians, Ginsey McCoy, age three, and a boy, Peter Hufman. They were later returned to their people, but went back to the Indians afterward. In 1903 an appropriation was made by legislature for a menument erward. In 1903 an appropriation was erward. In 1903 an appropriation was made by legislature for a monument of Bedford limestone, 44 feet high, which was dedicated October 1, 1904, at the spot where the massacre vic-tims were burled.

Water Power Was Used in Mills of Ancient Romans

The origin of water mills is buried in the depths of antiquity, for they are mentioned by Pliny, and are said to have been introduced into England by have been introduced into England by the Romans, writes R. Angus Downle in the Edinburgh Scotsman. Yet they remained unknown in Scotland prior to the Twelfth century, and did not become anything like common throughout the country for a hundred years. Before their introduction wheat was ground by bruising in a quern, a method followed in the Bronze age, and depicted upon the rock tombs of predynastic Egypt. When St. Columba studied under Finnian he bruised wheat with a quern each evening, and at Iona caused his disciples so to grind their daily meals.

Up to the middle of the Eighteenth

Up to the middle of the Eighteenth century water power was only ap-plied to the grinding of oats. The othprice to the grinding of oats. The our-er processes of production were car-ried on by the labor of human hands. After the harvest was cut the grain was separated by the use of the fiall. In 1710 James Meikle introduced the use of fanners to remove the loose chaff, but his invention was opposed by religious farners, who regarded char, but his invention was opposed by religious farmers, who regarded the raising of wind as interfering with the dispensation of Providence, and it only came gradually into general use. Barley was ground by bruising in a mortar or "knocking stone," until about 1750, when these humble, crude, and wasteful methods were replaced and wasteful methods were replaced by mills for grinding barley.

No Envelopes With Letters Prior to 1845, although postage stamps had been under discussion for several years in this country, their use on letters was not practical on account of the many and varying postal rates then in effect. The old rates were a relic of Colonial times and were based on two factors, distance and the number of sheets of paper a letter contained. Six cents was the rate for a single-sheet letter for a distance not exceeding 30 miles; 10 cents up to 80 miles; 121/2 cents, 150 miles; 18% cents, 400 miles, and for distances over 400 the rate was 25 cents. A letter of two sheets of paper took double these rates, three sheets treble and so on.

In order to secure the minimum rate letter was written on one side of sheet of paper, the sheet folded to letter size with the correspondence inside and the outside blank to receive the address. The folded letter was sealed at the post office after the clerk had checked the contents. Prepared envelopes were considered an extra sheet of paper and as such subject to additional postage, which accounts for their almost total absence from mall matter before the rates came to be based on weight.

apps Most Primitive

The Lapps are the most primitive people of Europe-nomads, depending almost solely upon their reindeer for food, clothing, home, and household utensils. They are a peace-loving and good-natured race. Though they live like animals, anger is unknown to them. The government of Sweden makes every effort to spread the rudi-ments of education, and especially hy-giene, among the Lapps; though they have accepted Christianity and made it a dominating part of their lives, the practices of civilization make not the slightest impression upon them.

Discovery of Baffin Bay

Baffin bay was discovered by an Englishman, named Baffin, in 1615. Baffin land is separated from Green-land by Baffin bay where the surface of the sea is covered during the great er part of the year with ice, which extends from shore to shore in winter, possessing a slow southward move-ment. In spring and summer the midice begins to move less slowly southward, leaving navigable passages be-tween the coasts.

Sataspes Was a Persian
According to Smith's "Dictionary of Mythology," Sataspes was a Persian, who, for the crime of rape, was condemned by Xerxes to impalement. On the plea of his mother the punishment was remitted on the condition that he circumnavigate Africa. He failed in the effort, being discouraged by ad-verse winds and currents, and was punished in accordance with the earlier sentence.

Curfew, English Custom,

Still Observed in Places The well-known recitation, "Currew Must Not Ring Tonight" was written about the curfew bell of Chertsey church, near the Thames in Surrey, where it rings every night through the winter until March—as it has done for centuries, notes a writer in the Mont-real Herald.

centuries, notes a writer in the shorteral Herald.

Chertsey is not the only place where the curfew can be heard, for these ancient belis are still rung in many towns and villages. This shows how general the custom was once, and indeed, the ringing of the curfew was once one of the most important customs. Wherever there were people living, there the curfew had to be rung. These were the king's orders.

William the Conqueror was the first king to make this custom a strict law, and every night at eight o'clock the curfew bell was rung, which meant that all fires and lights had to be put out, and everybody had to go Indoors. Those found outside by the king's soldiers after the bell had rung were severely punished. As the years went by the rules were made less strict, and the hour of hediting graw. went by the rules were made less strict, and the hour of bedtime grew

It is said that only in one place was the curfew allowed to be rung later than anywhere else. This was at St. Mary-le-Moor, at Wallingford, in Berk-shire, where the people rang the bell to welcome William after his victory at Hastings. As a reward for this wel-come the new king granted permission come the new king granted permission for the curfew to be rung at nine o'clock at night.

Romance of Wedding Ring

Dates to Egyptian Times The Egyptians of old said that a delicate nerve runs from the fourth finger of the left hand to the heart, writes a correspondent in the Weekly Irish Times. So this finger is adorned with Times. So this ringer is adorned with the weddling ring, the left hand being chosen to show that the woman is to be "subject to the man."

Ring posies or mottoes were inscribed inside the rings given by men scribed inside the rings given by men to women in the Sixteenth century. The "posies" were composed of rhyming lines, such as:

"In thee, my choice, I do rejoice,"

"My heart and I until we die." "When this you see then think of me." "Not two, but one, till life is done."

The old Mispah ring—a gold ring bearing the word "Mispah"—was exchanged between lovers when they were to be parted for any length of time, the word Mispah being interpreted as "The Lord watch between thee and me when we are absent one from the other."

In ancient Rome special star-rings dedicated to the Goddess of Health were worn as protection against dis-eases and plagues. Part of the design of the ring was a coiled snake, the viper having been regarded as a symbol of healing. Perhaps, this was the origin of the so-called "Hallowed Rings" of the Middle ages—Fings made from nails taken out of old coffins, which were supposed to cure cramps in the muscles.—Montreal Herald.

Potash

The name potash was derived from the early method of producing the commodity. Wood ashes were placed in a pot and water poured over them from time to time. Then the mineral was extracted from the liquid. This method has even survived the mining of the large deposits of potash which were discovered in Germany in the middle of the last century, and which have since been the world's most limited for their cottage at Silver Lake, Wilhave since been the world's most im-portant source. Before the World war the Stassfurt and Alsace deposits gave the kaiser virtual control of much of the world's agriculture.

Modern critics may doubt that King Arthur and his Knights of the Table Round ever existed, but in Tintagel, England, Arthurian legend is so real that a stone memorial Hall has been erected to the monarch who is supposed to have led the Christian kings of Britain against the Saxons of Kent during the 6th century.

Whether or not King Arthur ever conducted his Table Round in the ancient stronghold that once crowned Tintagel Head, it is certain that it dates back to an unfathomable age. To Cornishmen it seems logical that a legend which has survived so many centuries must have a respectable origin. So stories of King Arthur, Merlinthe Enchanter, and others are preserved, if not strictly believed, in Tintagel.

Fiedler Gives Interesting Talk To Rotarians

Tells of Promoting Shell Or Esplanade and Problems

Arthur Fiedler, of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and conductor of the Pops, talked most interestingly at Monday's Rotary luncheon on his eight years of work in establishing and conducting the Esplanade Concerts, which have increased greatly in popularity with the years. There seems to be as real a need for free music as there is for free public libraries and free museums, said the speaker. The Esplanade concerts are the only free concerts of major rank in this country. At the start, he said, people tried to discourage him by saying that the New England weather was bound to interfere with a series of outdoor concerts, but lo and behold, only five concerts have had to be given up because of the weather in the eight years. At first the concerts were supported by large contributions from a few individuals but since the coming of the depression expenses have been met largely by the smaller contributions from many people, obviously an advantage. Not one arrest has there been these years at any concert, an interesting answer to those who prophesied that rows would surely take place where so many were gathered together. those who prophesied that rows would surely take place where so many were gathered together. The conduct of the audience has in fact improved with the years in the matter of keeping silent during the program. The hearers manage that themselves, said Mr. Fiedler, by hushing up the thoughtless and ignorant.

In answer to many questions about the new shell and its acoustic properties, Mr. Fiedler commended it highly, although he admitted that acoustics are tricky and that probably some changes might have to be made. The nearness of the river has a favorable effect on the sound, as well as adding to the attractiveness of the setting for the concerts. In fact no better location could be found in Boston, all things considered. Of the 53 players, 48 are active members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and two are former members. In conclusion Mr. Fiedler entertained his hearers with a number of amusing anecdotes concerning symphony players.

Overnight Hikers At Camp Barker

Roll up the blankets in the poncho

Roll up the blankets in the poncho, make it a neat pack, for if a pack comes to pieces, then it is just too bad when you are hiking cross-country or over the roads. Now, where's that menu and give out that food so each Scout has a fair share of the load to carry.

That is the "big talk" at Camp Barker this week, for the staff has finally located an ideal spot for overnight hikes. Such hikes have been a feature of Camp Barker of Norumbega Council, Inc., Boy Scouts of America, for the past three years. However, good overnight hike sites are hard to find. The Scouts have been going to Wallum Pond, half of which is in Massachusetts and half in Rhode Island, but the sites were only fair.

After a thorough job of exploring, the staff has located a spot on Willis Pond, over near Manchaug. It is wooded with pines, has a fine bathing beach and ample country for wide smes.

The last big event at Camp Barker was the "Campers-as Staff" Day, when the camp elected Scouts to take the place of the staff and the staff took the places of the Scouts who were chosen to fill their shoes. Scout Ernest Gould of Troop 10, Waban, was Mr. Bruce, the Camp Director John Rourke, Senior Patrol Leader of Troop 20, Center, was Dr. Noyes, Assistant Camp Director; and so it went. The campers ran all the instruction classes and the staff members gave them plenty to think about when they went into classes for swimming, canoeing and the other things which are taught at camp.

Aldermen Vote Against Garages At Newton Hlds.

At the meeting of the Aldermen on Monday night the Board turned down the petition of Louis Rudnick of 105 Hyde street, Newton Highlands, askthe petition of Louis Rudnick of 10s Hyde street, Newton Highlands, asking for confirmation of the location of two garages which he built at 99 and 105 Hyde st. In granting the permits for these two garages some months ago, the Aldermen had specified that the garages must be set back 40 feet from the street line. There is a ledge of conglomerate rock at the locus and instead of putting the garages back 40 feet, as stipulated, Rudnick built the garages, so Alderman Hill informed the Board on Monday night, only 8 feet from the street line. Protests followed from owners of nearby properties and then Rudnick petitioned for confirmation by the Board of the locations of the two garages. It is now up to the Buildings Department to take action on these garages.

Aldermen Argue Over Improving Old City Hall Site

calm, harmonious unanimity

The calm, harmonious unanimity characteristic of the Newton Board of Aldermen was rudely shattered after midnight Tuesday morning by Alderman Dennis Cronin of Ward 4 when he objected strenuously to an appropriation of $3200 to landscape and otherwise improve the site of the old City Hall at Washington and Cherry streets, West Newton. The Aldermen had been in a huddle from 9 o'clock Monday night until 11.45 in the confines of a committee room discussing affairs of import. Such private sessions have been the practice of the Aldermen for the past several years. When any matter of import has been before the Boards instead of discussing such business in the open session as was done in past years, the Aldermen have retired to the secrecy of the committee room, and as a committee of the whole have resorted to star chamber sessions. So, last Monday night members of the press, sometimes designated by the complimentary term "The Fourth Estate," waited patiently in the aldermanic chamber, expecting to have the Aldermen reassemble in open session for a few minutes, transact a little routine business, and then adjourn. This expectation was also held by the members of the Board. But, Alderman Cronin injected a discordant note into the proceedings, kept the aldermen at City Hall nearly an hour longer than anticipated, and gave the members of the press some material for copy.

Mr. Cronin, following an explanatory speech by Alderman Gordon, chairman of the Finance Committee relative to the appropriations recommended by that committee, asked a number of questions and expressed some very decided opinions on certain of the appropriations. He was not alone in protesting against the $3200 appropriation for improving the

Apartment Houses At Chest. Hill To Be Altered

The large brick and stucco apartment house at 219 Commonwealth avenue. Chestnut Hill near Manet road will be evolved from ten large apartments into 28 small apartments as a result of permission having been granted by a vote of the Aldermen on Monday night for extensive alterations there. The property is now owned by the Estate Corporation of which Peter Turchon of Newton is the head. The building has been erected for about 35 years.

In discussing the petition for the permit to alter this building, at the meeting of the Aldermen on Monday night, following the favorable report of the Claims and Rules Committee on this petition, Alderman Gallagher usked if there would be any change in the physical aspect of the building. Alderman Grebenstein answered that the exterior appearance of the building will remain the same. Alderman Temperley called attention to the fact that the building is in a single residence zone and asked if any of the neighbors have objected to the change? Alderman Grebenstein residing? Alderman Grebenstein residing? Alderman Grebenstein residing? Alderman Grebenstein residing?

Unanimous Vote on Both-Murray Resigns as Alderman

The nominations of Charles A. Mahoney as Street Commissioner and Joseph J. Murray as Water Commissioner were sent to the Board of Aldermen by Mayor Weeks on Monday night at the regular meeting of the Board. The Board took a long recess which lasted two and three-quarters hours and much of this time was spent by the Board sitting as a committee of the whole to discuss the appointments. This meeting was held in the secrecy of a committee room

JOSEPH J. MURRAY Appointed Water Commission

The Aldermen resumed the open meeting in the aldermanic chamber at 11:45. Alderman Grebenstein moved that the rules be suspended so that confirmation of the appointments would not lay on the table as provided in Section 5 of Article 3 of the Rules. This motion was unanimously carried. A vote by ballot was first taken on the appointment of Mr. Mahoney. All of the eighteen aldermen gle residence zone and asked if any of the neighbors have objected to the change? Alderman Grebenstein replied that one neighbor objects. Alderman Temperley said the building is about 40 years old and that it is planned to make a radical change; to have 28 small apartments in it instead of ten large apartments. He said the Board of Aldermen should proceed slowly in this matter.
Alderman Gallagher said the alterations will provide work for a lot of men and this work will be done by Newton men. He argued that the alterations will have to modernize the building in accordance with Newton's building code, and that fire escapes will be placed on the outside of the large structure so that it will be less of a fire hazard. Only One City in World Bears Name "Ann Arbor"

The name Ann Arbor is distinctive to this city alone. Nowhere in the world is there another Ann Arbor, says a United Press writer. No food or merchandise bears this name as trademark, Ann Arbor is original, Mail comes from even official Washington addressed to "Ann Arbor," or "An-arber," but still Ann Arbor gets its mail.

Postal guides list only one Ann Ar bor. Gazeteers, encyclopedias, atlas tables, dictionaries and maps substan-tlate the postal information. Travelers and research workers who explore un-known territories never have estab-lished another Ann Arbor as far as can be determined.

There are eight Detroits, eleven

Diamonds, seven Cubas, a dozen Bos-tons, twenty-two Buffalos, twenty-five Clevelands and other names in like numbers. But Ann Arbor, like San Francisco and New York, is one of a few cities not duplicated. Even New York is partially duplicated in New York Mills. This name appears in the postal lists for New York and Minnesota.

Galion, Ohio, has the distinction of bearing a name not borne by any other place in the world. It was laid out in 1831 by two German brothers, Jacob and Michael Ruhl, and settled mostly by German people, who petitioned the postmaster general to name their postoffice Goshen. But finding that there were several other Goshens, this official suggested altering it to Galeon, which was later changed to Galion.

"Cables," Money Market

Term Used by Exchanges The term "cables" is a money market term for cable orders or cable transfers, also a money market re-port term under which the rates of exchange for such orders or transfers are quoted. According to "Escher's Foreign Exchange Explained," the prices of sight draft and long bills are based on the price of cables.

The first thing in the morning the

The first thing in the morning the foreign exchange banker, say in New York, receives a cablegram from his correspondent in London, telling him just what the rate on New York is over there. With this information on hand, he is in a position to commence buying and selling. The rate for ca-bles having been established, it is easy enough to fix the price of demand drafts, the latter being cheaper by an amount corresponding to 10 days' in

When a banker sells a cable he makes immediate payment out of his balance abroad. When, however, he sells a sight draft, his balance abroad sells a signt draft, his balance abroad remains undisturbed for eight or nine or ten days, which is the quickest time in which the draft he has sold can be presented for encashment. Nat-urally he will charge less than when he sells a cable and loses the use of his money at once.

Siamese Woodpecker Parasite

The Slamese rufous woodpecker has a decidedly easy existence at the expense of an industrious species of ant that lives in the thick jungles of its native country, according to a Washington ornithologist, who has studied the bird life of Siam, Indo-China and other little known lands of southeast-ern Asia. The ants, says the Detroit News, make large lumpy nests high among the branches of the jungle trees, presumably out of wood pulp chewed up in their jaws. When nest-ing time comes for the woodpeckers, which at other times of the year in-habit the giant bamboo thickets, these birds repair to the jungle habitat of the ants and bore holes into the lat-ters' papier mache-like nests to make homes for their own young. As though adding insult to injury, the woodpeckers not only sponge on the ants for homes but feed their offspring on their host and their larvae

The word "nemesis" is popularly used to denote retributive justice, writes G. R. Turner in the Kansas City Times. Sometimes the individual re-sponsible for the infliction of such justice upon the offender is described as the offender's "Nemesis," the word in this instance being spelled with a capital N. Inspiration for the word is derived from Nemesis, the goddess, who, according to Greek mythology, their exact share of good o bad fortune.

Ship Designs Ship design during the first few hundred years of the Christian era was greatly influenced by the models produced by the Vikings. The Viking ship of the Eighth century was a remarkable example of expert shipbuilding. The vessels of the Norsemen were from 75 to 140 feet long and 15 feet wide, propelled by 32 oars, 16 on each side, and a square sail. The remarkable feature of the design was the able feature of the design was the planking and highly practicable shape of the hull. Wooden ships today are built on the same general lines.

Wasps' Nests

The described home of the paper making wasp, is a common sight throughout Michigan woodlands, says the Detroit News. In the old days when the pioneers suffered from hay fever or asthma they found relief by smoking particles of this dried nest. In building it the wasps gather small chips of wood, masticate them and shape their nest much as an artisan would handling plaster or cement. The entrance hole at the bottom goes upward in order to keep out beating rains and the entire structure is highly waterproof.

Barbary Is Name Given to North African Countries

Burbary or Barbary coast is a gen-eral name for the Moslem countries on the northern coast of Africa, ex-clusive of Egypt, says the Indianapolis News. The region so designated includes Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia and Tripoli. Barbary probably is derived from Berber, the name of the chief indigenous Cancasian race which since the dawn of history has inhabited the vast region lying be-tween the Mediterranean sea on the north and the Sahara desert on the south, and stretching from Egypt to the Atlantic ocean.

The origin of Berber itself is not certainly known, Barabara and Bera-berata occur as tribal titles in Egyptian inscriptions dating from 1700 to tian inscriptions dating from 100 1300 B. C., and some writers have assumed that the term is of Egyptian origin. Others trace it to the Arabic, the language of the Moslem hordes who subjected the Berbers and converted them to their religion. Still others suppose the term to be de-rived from barbaril, the Latin for barbarism. Barbarian literally meant babbler, and the Greeks and Roman applied it to all foreigners or peoples whose language they could not un-

The Rhea
The rhea, an ostrich-like bird, thrives best in a semi-wild state; that is, unconfined. Left to roam over wide areas, the birds nevertheless will join barn-yard fowls at feeding time. They are not wild but require wide ranging space. They feed on grass, insects, small rodents and grain. Some of the great Arguing sequences will. of the great Argentine estancias will have as many as 5,000 rheas in a flock, and it usually is calculated that each one should be allowed at least an acre of range.

It is quite probable that such a Legislative session might prove as unfruitful as the special insurance session of a few years ago. The telephone company is a New York corporation. Much of its business is of an inter-state character and such being the case the Inter-State Commerce Commission has more jurisdiction over it than the Massachusetts Public sion has more jurisdiction over it than the Massachusetts Public Utilities Commission. Furthermore, like any business, public utilities are based upon certain constitutional rights which can-not be ignored. We realize that many criticise the State Denot be ignored. We realize that many criticise the State Department of Public Utilities for their apparent lack of sympathy with the rate-paying public whether it is telephone rates or other utility rates. We do not defend high rates by public utility rates. In fact we are as desirous as anyone to have such rates as low as possible. In the instance of the telephone company, however, the only means by which lower rates could be justifiably ordered seems to be from the results of investigation by Federal authorities.

Crude Sail Used to Aid

Oarsmen to Propel Ships The adaptation of sails came early in the history of navigation, notes a writer in the Chicago Tribune. The Egyptians first used a piece of square matting lashed to a single mast. This crude sail, however, was by no means the chief means of propelling the vessel. For hundreds of years the propelling force for all ships was principening force for all ships was principally supplied by onsmen. Sails were in the beginning merely auxiliary assistants to the rowers and were used only when a following wind was present. Egyptian ships of the fifth dynasty represent a more practicable use of sails as a propelling force. Manip-ulation of the sail was aided by lines attached to the sail. Backstays sup-ported the most. Steering was accom ported the mast. plished by paddles in the hands steersmen on the stern platform. From the primitive stages the art of shipbuilding and the skill of navigating vessels progressed to that stage which was represented by the comparatively huge ships known as galleys. The ancient Greeks and Romans, as well as the civilized nations border-ing the Mediterranean and adjoining seas, used galleys effectively in war and peace. Gallars works and peace. Galleys were common in the early centuries of the Christian era. The famous triremes of the Ro-mans had lengths as great as 200 feet and were from 20 to 30 feet in width. They were equipped with large sails but depended upon oars for the chief means of propulsion.

First Steam Engine Was Used Away Back in 1698

While James Watt is generally credited with being the inventor responsible for the development of the steam engine, patent records show that an Englishman, Thomas Savery, devised a water-raising engine in 1698. This was really the first steam engine to be put to practical use, being employed in raising water from a coal mine, says Pathfinder Magazine. The first practical piston-type steam engine was pat-ented by Thomas Newcomen and his assistant, James Cawley, in 1705. This proved immediately that this type was far more practical than Savery's en gine, both in number of uses and fuel consumed. Improvements made on the Newcomen engine from 1763 to 1781 by James Watt gradually brought steam into industrial use. In 1782 Watt departed radically from principles of the earlier engines and de-vised the double action type, the fore-runner of the giant engines. The introduction of steam marked the end of the supremacy of salling vessels. In 1786 James Rumsey propelled a boat on the Potomac river at a speed of four miles an hour through use of a power pump. About the same time an Englishman, James Witch willing a company of the same time an Englishman, James Witch willing a company of the same time and the Fitch, utilized a steam engine to op-erate his oar-driven steamboats. In 1801 the paddle-wheel was introduced in a steam towboat operating on the Forth and Clyde canal. It was the work of this strange craft that in-spired Robert Fulton to build his steamboat, the Clermont, in 1807.

According to ancient Greek physiologists, the climacteric years of a man's life were respectively his seventh, twenty-first, forty-ninth, sixty-third, and eighty-first. These were regarded as the terminals of marked physical change, and were duly celebrated.
The advent of the twenty-first year we still celebrate as the "coming of age" of a man—the end of the period of adolescence. The mystic numbers were seven and nine. Although the Spanish origin of the term "grand climacteria" is not known, it is probable that it arose from the multiplication of the two mystic numbers; and the age sixty-three is supposed to mark the begin-nining of the period of decline.—Lit-

The Gemel ring, common in the Mid-dle ages, was formed of three circles joined with a jeweled clasp, the mid-dle circle quite plain and the upper and lower ones set with precious stones. When a girl was betrothed, the first circle was placed on her hand, the plain circle given to the witness to the betrothah, and the third circle to the bridegroom. On the wedding day, the Gemel, joined again by its Jeweled clasp, was used as the wedding ring.

Reason for the Curfew

The reason for the curfew was that in the early days all the houses were wood and thatched straw says the Montreal Herald. There were no chimneys, and the smoke had to escape through a hole in the center of the roof, and thus fires often occurred. To prevent this happening at night the rule of putting out all fires was strictly enforced. They were us-usually extinguished by placing over them a large copper hood.

Lions, ante-lopes and zebras are at home in north-ern Rhodesia; hippopotamuses are found in nearly every river; and hartebeest, waterbucks, rhinoceroses and many animals whose names are unfamiliar to the American layman

Progress has been slower in northern Rhodesia than in southern Rhoern Rhodesia than in southern Rho-desia. Mineral resources of the for-mer—copper, lead and zinc—have not been developed like those of its southern neighbor. Northern Rhodesia has attracted fewer white men, and the natives have not been apt students of agriculture. Missions of California Given Start at San Diego

California missions date back almost 200 years, the first having been found-ed at San Diego July 1, 1769, by Fra Junipero Serra, whose name still is honored in the state. In 1924 a celebration was held at Monterey in hon-or of Fra Junipero, and a bronze sarcophagus, designed to hold his bones, was dedicated. Fra Junipero founded, in all, 21 missions in California, which served as the basis of the state's settlement and played an important part in the civilization of the Indians, tablishment of the missions, says:

"Human motives are always mixed;
and the missions were human. The Spanish politicians desired new lands for the crown; the missionaries burned to save souls. The state had all the appetites of expansion. It was eager to liberate and civilize the Indians for 'what there might be in it.'

"The missions were not mere fron-tier chapels, but little walled cities, with church, school, 'quarters,' work-shops, not only for the religious and educational, but for the material needs of the patriarchal community—and a town of 2,000 Indians and five or six Europeans is not a small thing for circumvallation. "The first California mission, that

"The Brst Cantorna mission, tan of San Diego de Alcala, was founded in 1769. By the year 1800 there were 1805 missions, dotting a line 500 miles long. Three more were established in the next century."

The Blue Danube

Famous for the waltzes composed beside its banks and for a particular one named for it, the Danube river flows through, or passes by, six countries before it empties in the Black sea. Starting in Baden in the Black forest as the joint effort of two mountain streams at an altitude of over 2,000 feet, the Danube drops to 500 feet at Vienna, then wanders through feet at Vienna, then wanders through Hungary and Yugoslavia, and passes between Bulgaria and Rumania. This river which is 1,740 miles long has 400 tributaries. For most of its course the Danube is not at all blue but is of a dirty yellowish, owing to the soil deposited in it by the rains. It is only in its upper part. In the mountains, that it has the blue tint.—Pathfinder

Nature Fashions Flowers of Gold

The South Kensington museum in London has been presented with spe-cimens of curious gold "flowers" taken from a depth of 5,700 feet at the City Deep Gold mine near Johannesburg, South Africa. The flowers are said to have been formed by crystallization of the precious metal in a manner similar to that in which "ice-flowers" are formed upon a window pane in cold weather.

Brilliance, Brilliancy

The words brilliance and brilliancy are so closely synonymous that the dicionary records them as interchange able. An exception to that inter-changeabilty might be taken in the event that two colors were to be com-pared. In such instance, brilliancy is regarded as having degrees of quality One would say, "The comparative brilliancy of two colors" father than "The comparative brilliance of two colors." -Literary Digest.

The Balkans

The Balkans are a series of ridges of mountains in southeastern Europe. The term Balkan peninsula is applied peninsula of southeastern Europe peninsula of southeastern Europe which was formerly under Turkish suzerainty, except that Rumania and Greece are often omitted in naming the Balkan states. The others are Jugoslavia, Bulgaria, Albania and the remnant of European Turkey.

Winner of Millionth Nash Car

Dr. E. O. Nash, eighty year old Pueblo, Colorado physician, was officially named the winner today of the "Million Car" contest recently conducted by the Nash Motors Company. Although Dr. Nash is not related to the motor car manufacturer, the similarity of their names did influence him to purchase one of the first Nash cars 17 years ago. The seventeen year old veteran shown here has well over 200,000 miles on its speedometer and was the 571st vehicle manufactured by the Nash Motors Company. As the winner of the contest Dr. Nash will be presented with the millionth Nash car built at the Century of Progress in Chicago early in August.

Horseshoes

The ancients were so impressed by the damage done to horses' hoofs that they devised certain forms of covering for them (in the shape of socks or sandals). The practice of nailing iron plates or vimshoes to the hoof does not appear to have been introduced earlier than the Second century B. C., and was not commonly known till the close of the Fifth century A. D., or in regular use till the Middle ages.

Rice on Terraced Land Rice on Terraced Land
In many parts of Oceania rice planting is done on terraced land, flooded by means of a sluice. This method is employed particularly in the highlands, where the soil is not always fertile and planting on the slopes is difficult. The irrigation and terracing overcome both conditions, converting much otherwise useless soil into rice beds.

No Snow Houses for Eskimos

The only snow houses, or igloss, viewed by the majority of Eskimos have been those portrayed by motion pictures, says G. R. Turner in the Kansas City Times. In North America Kansas City Times. In North America and Greenland there are approximately 30,000 Eskimos, three-fourths of whom have never seen a snow house, and of these only a fractional number have ever spent a winter in one. In summer most Eskimos live in tents made by stretching skins over poles, and in winter they usually dwell in houses made of turf or earth laid on a framework of driftwood or whale ribs. The igloo, or snow house, is constructed chiefly by hunters.

Newton's tax rate for 1934 will be $26,60, an increase of $1.80 per thousand over the rate of last year, according to announcement made today by Mayor Sinclair Weeks. Extraordinary snow removal costs and added Public Welfare expenses are given as the principal reasons for the rate advance, the first in five years.

Figures furnished by the Board of Assessors show that Mayor Weeks was powerless to prevent the increase, his economies in the operation of municipal departments being offset by the need for $100,000 additional for clearing the streets of snow and ice, by imperative increase in welfare expenses amounting to $40,000, school increases of $40,000

Two Boys Saved

From Drowning

Graham Riggs, 16, of Holborn st., Dorchester, and Frazer Smith, 15, of Highland ave., Roxbury, were rescued from drowning in the Charles River on Wednesday morning about 8. The two boys, who had been on a camping trip along the river, with a third boy, paddled out into the stream from where they had camped near the Newton pumping station. While changing the location of cushions in the canoe, they caused the little craft to overturn. Young Riggs' head hit a rock in the river and he was rendered unconscious. The Smith boy held him above water and shouted for help. Howard Milner, 17, of 36 Walter st., Newton Centre; Herbert Hurley of 934 Watertown st., West Newton, and Odesso Lamarre of Topliff st., Dorchester, who were nearby, jumped into the river fully clothed and swam to the rescue of the two boys. Young Milner, who is the stepson of Street Commissioner Mahoney, applied the prone method of resuscitation to Riggs until the police ambulance arrived. The boy revived on the way to the hospital.

THREE TEAMS TIED FOR TOP HONORS IN NEWTON TWI LEAGUE

The Newton Twilight League season has closed with three teams tied for top honors: Y. M. C. A., Auburndale B. B. C. and Newton A. C. each having won 14 games while losing 6. The race was the closest in years, two other teams, Silver Lake A. C. and Newton City Club finishing one and Newton City Club Innishing one game behind. A mental lapse by the City Club catcher, who put the ball in his pocket instead of throwing to first base for the final out in a game with Y. M. C. A. several weeks ago, made the difference between being in or out of the playoffs for these two teams.

The intense interest in the idea was manifested by the number of children who appeared in costume, 176 of them, presenting a most colorful spectacle as they slowly mended their way around the playground. The color of the river has changed to a sickly green and the odor emanating from it resembles that of stagnant vegetation. Public attention was first called to this condition a couple of weeks ago by Jack Leary, former Waltham football star, who is in charge of the bathing beach at Forest Grove, Waltham. Mr. Leary noticed the discoloration of the water, thought there might be some pollution in the river which would be injurious to the health of those bathing in it, and notified the authorities.

Mr. Richardson is confident that the administration has done a magnificent job thus far, considering the trying difficulties in the way. He said he could not at all agree with Mr. Herbert McGill, who in his address to the club a few weeks ago was profoundly pessimistic regarding the New Deal. The speaker felt that though this depression has been much more severe than those of the past, the same laws are at work and we shall pull through as we have done before. He believes, moreover, that the danger of inflation has been greatly overestimated. The purchase of silver to the amount of about one-third that of gold is not at all alarming. Leaders in finance who have interviewed Mr. Roosevelt have come away from the White House much heartened by the President would express himself as well publicly as he has privately. A lively discussion followed this informal talk, when members and guests asked questions.

Archibald Barron, of Barron's Inc., West Newton department store, was welcomed as a new member by Dr. Charles Ansley, who spoke effectively on the rights and duties of Rotary membership. Of the six guests present, one came from Montreal, and President Lyscom Bruce presided over the meeting in his usual happy manner.

According to Prof. Guba the growth in the river can be eliminated by in-troducing a solution of copper sul-phate into the water of the Charles. Because of the extent of the growth now, it would probably take a large quantity of copper sulphate to clear it from the water and it is hardly probable that this will be done.

The increase of $1.80 in the Newton tax rate is not unexpected. Naturally, taxpayers do not enthuse over any increase in a tax rate. But, taxpayers of Newton have the satisfaction of knowing that the tax rate of this city was the lowest last year of any city in Massachusetts and will be among the lowest, if not the lowest, this year. In comparison with other cities, Newton is being run economically, and if all needed improvements, such as resurfacing of streets and sidewalks were made, the tax rate would be considerably higher.

Many years ago the City of Newton had its Street Department employees care for the grass borders between sidewalks and roadways on accepted streets in this city. But for years the city has not taken care of these borders and unless oc-cupants or owners of residences cut the grass and weeds, the borders have presented a quite unattractive appearance. During the years of the depression they have become increasingly less cared for. They now are grown high with weeds on a large percentage of street frontages. Ordinarily we would favor the use of Street Department employees in keeping grass and weeds cut on street borders. But with economy necessary and with the appropriation for street maintenance pared down as far as possible, it would seem practical to have this work done by men who receive aid from the city, and who have been working on other projects. Not alone from an aesthetic aspect should the be cut down on street borders, but as a relief to sufferers from hay fever. The great quantity of rag weed growing high along our streets does not lessen the amount of hay fever in

Unquestionably the stenciling of house numbers on curb-stones and sidewalks will greatly aid many persons who have had difficulty in locating houses in Newton; especially houses situated many feet back from streets. Some of the owners and occupants of houses in front of whose residence the numbers have been stencilled have shown appreciation for this service. Others have not enthused. They believe that such numbers should not have been painted without their knowledge or request. Comments have been made that permission to do the work should not have been given to a non-resident of Newton in conjunction with requests from residents for contributions in return. Those making these comments believe that if any profit is made on this activity, it should go exclusively to Newton's unemployed, or that the work should be done gratis as one means of providing employment for men on the welfare

There are eleven candidates for the Republican nomination There are eleven candidates for the Republican nomination for Sheriff of Middlesex County. Some of them are qualified for this very important office; others are not. The candidate who seems destined to receive the majority of votes to be cast in Newton is Harry Dunlap Brown of Billerica. Mr. Brown is one of the leaders of the Republican party in the Legislature; he is the "whip" in the House of Representatives. This is proof of his ability and popularity with his fellow members in the House. He served as a Captain in the 1st Division in France and was twice wounded in action. A straightforward "he-man", aggressive and tactful, he possesses to a marked degree the aggressive and tactful, he possesses to a marked degree the qualifications essential to fill the office of Sheriff. And this office is of such import, and carries such power, that it behoves voters of Middlesex County to consider carefully who they select to fill this important position.

The hundreds of thousands of dollars to be presented to pig producers in New England and particularly in Middlesex County, causes persons residing in Massachusetts to realize clearly for the first time the vast sums taken in taxes from the clearly for the first time the vast sums taken in taxes from the American people, and presented as bonuses or relief to members of certain lucky classes by the Federal Government under the AAA program. Most of the $120,000,000 to be paid to farmers for not raising pigs will go to the Mid-West. Wouldn't it be nice if unemployed mill workers in New England, mechanics and professional men who have not had any incomes, or very gradly incomes, for years, or men whose incomes from husiness. small incomes for years, or men whose incomes from business have been wiped out, would get thousands of dollars, just as the pig raisers (or non-raisers) are to receive. Talk about robbing Peter to pay Paul.

As usual, there were many changes when the closing date arrived. Six men dropped out and two new candidates appeared, so that we now have eleven contestants in the September primary. However, by the time you are reading this column, the date for withdrawals will have come, and the field may be slightly reduced. As matters now stand, we have the following list as it will appear on the primary ballot:

Howe Coolidge Amee—Cambridge.
Joseph George Bates—Malden.
George Broombridge—Somerville.
Harry Dunlap Brown—Billerica.
John W. Justice—Medford.
Clarence P. Kidder—Cambridge.
Joseph M. McElroy—Cambridge.

Wendell D. Rockwood—Cambridge.
George A. C. Stone—Somerville.
Henry L. Walker—Medford.
It may be of interest to note that the unexpected candidates are Broombridge and Justice, and those who failed to file papers were Clement and Knapp of Malden, Leslie G. Ain ley, Boston Globe reporter, from Cambridge, former Mayor Thomas Braden and Cheney of Lowell, and Santora of Somerville. More about these retired candidates later.

Bear in mind that in the old days a G. O. P. nomination for Sheriff was equivalent to election. The Democratic nominee got some useful publicity and perhaps secured a toe-hold for some future campaign, but that was all. Middlesex County is still, theoretically, a Republican stronghold, although the Democrats have made tremenodus headway during the last decade. For example, whenever the G. O. P. presents a relatively weak candidate, as in the case of the late William Sterling Youngman, and the Democrats offer a strong candidate against him, as proved the ease with Governor Ely, the Democrats can carry a substantial number of normally Republican cities and towns. I shall cover this phase of the situation in greater detail when I survey the gubernatorial field early in October. Suffice it to say that the G. O. P. still has the edge, and the nomination for Sheriff, while not equivalent to election, still looks like a grand prize.

Perhaps this is as good a place as ny to name the three outstanding andidates. I have checked up rather carefully on this point with a good many shrewd politicians, and I will gamble that when the votes are counted on September 20 I will not be gamble that when the votes are counted on September 20 I will not be very far out of line. My guess is that the winner of the free-for-all will be either Harry Dunlap Brown of Billerica, the Republican whip of the House, Acting Sheriff Joseph M. Mc-Eiroy of Cambridge, who will be listed on the ballot as Special Sheriff, Master of the House of Correction and Keeper of the Jail, or Clarence P. Kidder of Cambridge, former Representative and State Senator. I will go further and suggest that it is quite possible that these three men may finish in just that order. If the supporters of Ralph W. Robart of Cambridge take exception to my prophecy, I will admit that Robart will very likely come in fourth, and it would not be surprising if he beat out ex-senator Kidder and possibly one of the other two men, although this is doubtful.

Where does Harry Brown's strength like? To begin with he has an ex-

Where does Harry Brown's strength lie? To begin with, he has an extremely pleasing personality, is very popular in the House, and has a faculty for making friends wherever he goes, without any apparent effort. In Newton he is fortunate in having the support of practically all the outstanding political leaders, including the Mayor and former Mayors Hatfield and Childs, Speaker Leverett Saltonstall, and Thomas W. White. This ought to be enough to give Brown a very substantial vote in Newton.

Joseph M. McElroy has the advanges and the support of the support Where does Harry Brown's strengt lused to a decade or so ago, but he is well versed in the art of politics, and will make plenty of trouble for all of his opponents.

In addition to the four candidates whom I have mentioned, there are two others who may have a serious of articles this week dealing with this matter. These articles stated that cast yin the fight. These men are Henry L. Walker of Medford, a Deput will be serious a strong following throughout the County, and former Mayor Wendell D. Rockwood of Cambridge. Note please, that six out of eleven candidates have been referred to so far. They comprise the cream of the entry list. Note further that four of these six live in Cambridge. The significance of this fact is that the Cambridge vote will be badly divided, and a strong candidate from some other city or town will have an excellent chance to walk away with the combridge of their opportunity. Walker, however, will be substantially cut by the Sheriff, has a wide lead in that sector. Furthermore, I doubt if Walker is as well known throughout the County as Brown, and his support does not seem to be quite as impressive.

Just a word, now, about the six candidates who withdrew at the last minute. Clement and Knapp of Malden would probably have hurt the chances of Joseph McElroy, who is reputed to be strong in that district, so it is conceivable that McElroy's supporters of Joseph McElroy, who is reputed to be strong in that district, so it is conceivable that McElroy's supporters of Joseph McElroy, who is reputed to be strong in that district, so it is conceivable that McElroy's supporters of Joseph McElroy, who is reputed to be strong in that district, so it is conceivable that McElroy's supporters of Joseph McElroy who is reputed to be strong in that district, so it is conceivable that McElroy's supporters of Joseph McElroy who is reputed to be strong in that district, so it is conceivable that McElroy's supporters of Joseph McElroy and the pattern of the reputation and appearance of result of the profile to be supported to the supporters

Just a word, now, about the six candidates who withdrew at the last minute. Clement and Knapp of Malden would probably have hurt the chances of Joseph McElroy, who is reputed to be strong in that district, so it is conceivable that McElroy's supporters may have persuaded them to retire. Former Mayor Braden and Cheney of Lowell would have unquestionably cut into Harry Brown's vote, so we will hazard a guess that some of Brown's friends may have exerted a little gentle pressure in their direction. The same may be said of Ainley of Cambridge, who counted among his supporters (some weeks ago, at any rate) two of Newton's most astute political leaders. I have no information of consequence regarding Santora of Somerville, but it may be that his withdrawal and Broombridge's last minute entrance have some connection.

A brief word about the minor candidates. Amee is a member of the Cambridge City Council and was one of three Councilors who recently supported Mayor Russell 'during a bitter controversy. His name, of course, is widely known on account of his father's reputation as head of the booksellers' and stationers' shop in Harvard Square. Bates was a member of the Malden City Council 1929-1930; Broombridge is now a member of the Republican City Committee of Somerville; Stone is a member of the same Committee, and is also a World War veteran; and Justice of Medford should travel a long way on account of his name. (Time is too short to find out why there is any justice to this contest!)

Lively Contest for Sheriff of Middlesex County

A whole book could be written about the exciting contest now being waged for the Republican nomination for Sheriff of Middlesex County. Prior to the last day for filing nomination papers, there were fifteen avowed candidates, to say nothing of one line and sale and this would aid greatly in relieving the people of this country from other burdensome forms of taxation. It has been known since the repeal went into effect and liquor has been legally dispensed, that a large portion of liquor sold in Massachusetts, as well as all over the United States, has been illegally manufaction will make plenty of trouble for all of his opponents.

In addition to the four candidates.

A Boston rewards of the 18th Amendment was—that the Federal Government would obtain huge revenues through the legalized manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages and this would aid greatly in relieving the people of this country from other burdensome forms of taxation. It has been known since the repeal went into effect and liquor has been legally dispensed, that a large portion of liquor sold in Massachusetts, as well as all over the United States, has been illegally manufactured, or smuggled into this country, and the Government has been defrauded of millions of dollars in revenue.

It is a known fact that many of the bootleggers of the prohibition years, men who made fortunes by violating the law, are now engaged in the legal liquor business. Some of these men have divorced themselves from bootlegging and are selling only legal liquor. More of them, while having legal licenses to sell liquor, are selling alcoholic products made by, or obtained from bootleg sources. Another angle of the illicit traffic is the fact that prosperous bootleggers financed and are really the operators of liquor dispensing places for which licenses were obtained by others. It licenses were obtained by others. It is the duty of local licensing commis is the duty of local licensing commis-sions to co-operate with Federal offi-cials in the herculean effort to wipe out the bootleg liquor business by re-fusing liquor licenses to anyone sus-pected of connections with bootleg-gers, and to investigate thoroughly any licensee who is supposed to have affiliations with bootleggers.

The writer may be "hard-boiled" in The writer may be "hard-boiled" in some respects, but (believe it or not) we are quite tender hearted in other ways. We have had consideration for the common type of black ants which frequent lawns, gardens, street borders and such places. They are such industrious, intelligent little insects. We never enthused over the tiny red ants which infest houses and get into food, but the black ants usually remain out of doors and don't bother householders. Our admiration for this bound in the control of ouseholders. Our admiration for thi species of ant was threatened the pas week, however. Some of them, fron one of the numerous colonies outsidone of the numerous colonies outside our home, didn't play the game on the up and up. They sneaked into the house. The other day, as we started to eat our dinner, we had to brush one off the table, and as we started to finish the dinner on a piece of blue berry pie, another black ant dived of the pie just as it reached our lips. Then and there, we decided to step or every black ant we saw outside the house, instead of stepping over them or around them. But just to prove how intelligent these critters are, af John C. Kelleher—Somerville.

Offhand, it would seem that Walsh of Framingham, who is senior Deputy Sheriff, had as good a chance as anybody to capture the Democratic nomination. In this connection, many people were surprised that Stephen C. Garrity of Lowell, whose name was presented to the Governor's Council three times in succession by Governor Ely, did not file papers. It may be that a definite job as State Fire

In last week's GRAPHIC we mentioned that political propaganda has been issued against Frank A. Brooks, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor's Council by the spreading of the report that Mr. Brooks is receiving a pension while the fact is that he only was paid back the money he paid into the contributory retirement fund, and he is not, nor never has received a pension. By a coincidence, Miss Margaret McGill who is another candidate for the same nomination withdrew on May 18th of this year the money she had contributed to the Teachers' Retirement Fund. She had taught in the Newton High School from 1905 to 1918 and from 1920 to 1923, when she obtained a leave of absence which was continued from year to year. "Soul" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 19.

The Golden Text is: "Cause me to hear thy loving kindness in the morning; for in thee do I trust: cause me to know the way wherein I should walk; for I lift up my soul unto thee" (Psalms 143:8).

Among the citations which com-thee" (Psalms 143:8).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And it came to pass, that as he was come nigh unto Jericho, a certain blind man sat by the way side begging: . . And Jesus stood, and commanded him to be brought unto him: and when he was come near, he asked him, saying, What wilt thou that I shall do unto thee? And he said, Lord, that I may receive my sight. And Jesus said unto him, Receive thy sight: thy faith hath saved thee. And immediately he received his sight, and followed him, glorifying God" (Luke 18:35, 40:43).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes

18:35, 40-43).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Knowing that Soul and its attributes were forever manifested through man, the Master healed the sick, gave sight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, feet to the lame, thus bringing to light the scientific action of the divine Mind on human minds and bodies and giving a better understanding of Soul and a better understanding of Soul and salvation" (p. 210).

Bedlington Terrier Not Wolf in Sheep's Clothing

Not quite the wolf in sheep's cloth-ing, the Bedlington terrier is nevertheless very deceptive in appearance. Cloaked with a thick, linty coat, hard but woolly-like in texture, and a smile that would have flattered Mary's little lamb, this gamest of all terriers of the British isles is by no means a mollycoddle, asserts a writer in the Los Angeles Times. When aroused, his deeply sunken small eyes that are, when he is reposed, mild and gentle when he is reposed, mild and gowth in their expression, become fired with in their expression, become fired with a sparkle full of temper and courage.

As a sporting terrier he is second to none. He will work an otter, draw a badger and has no superior as an enemy to all types of vermin. Equally at home on land or in the water, he at home on land or in the water, he becomes very useful for rough shooting when taught to retrieve. His is an exceptionally fine nose and his endurance surprising.

Graceful, lithe and muscular, he gallops with the whole body, greyhound fashion, at great speed. In the slower paces, his action is distinctively springy, light and mineing. But no more distinctive than is his every detail of make-up. His coat has a distinct tendency toward twist, particularly on the head, that is carried high, on a long tapering neck, deep at the base and sprung well up from flat shoulders. By reason of the roach basic and spring head the base and sprung well up from flat shoulders. By reason of the flat shoulders. By reason of the roach back and arched loin, the hind legs have the appearance of being longer than the forelegs.

Sulphur Is One of Most Important of Minerals

To the average layman sulphur is known only as a mineral used in the manufacture of matches, an ingredient manuacture of matches, an ingredient of pills and liquids filling drug store shelves, or a yellow substance that is burned to fumigate sick rooms.

To chemists and manufacturers, however, it is a far more important of the property of the mineral. Sulphur in various "dis-guises" hides in thousands of products

Seeing Without Eyes
A blind fish can dash and zig-zag about a rocky pool and never touch an obstacle. Any fish can travel on the darkest night upstream and avoid the banks, rocks, fallen trees or treeroots, the bottom of the stream or other fish. Only recently has the organ of this sense been discovered. You can see it if you look at any fish of the salmon family and in many others—a see it if you look at any fish of the salmon family and in many others—a channel running up the length of the fish on either side. Over this is a cell containing a fluid, from which nerves run to the brain. They carry a message as to the least variation in the pressure of the outer water, as it varies with depth, and when flowing round obstacles. The fish doesn't think before acting when a danger signal of varying pressure is given. There's no varying pressure is given. There's no time for thought. Their response to the message sent to the brain is auto-matic. Just as the Infra-red photo-graphic plate can take a clear photo-graph in a thick fog, so fish can see in murky water. They see by light-rays insighly to our own area. Montreal invisible to our own eyes .- Montrea

Eskimo Igloos Built of Wood

Eskimo Igloos Built of Wood
The American Eskimo does not live in igloos made of ice. Between the Little and Big Diomede Islands, the Little Diomede Island being in the international boundary line between Russian Siberia and the United States, the Igloos are frequently built almost entirely of driftwood. Sometimes they are arranged in the form of trenches with long underground of trenches with long underground passages leading from one igloo to another. Walrus gut placed in a small square opening at the top provides light. Air is something an Eskimo can almost do without. Most of the igloos have little alcoves attached.

Of the early steamships designed to carry huge cargoes and many passen gers, a notable example was the Great Eastern. This ship, one of the first vessels ever built as a steamship, was completed in England in 1857. Originally designed to inaugurate a line be tween England and Australia, the Great Eastern never made such a voyage, because its engines were not sufficiently powerful. The ship was used, however, in laying the first transatlantic cable.

One of the tribes in the Sudan, Africa, has a logical system of adult education. Each village has a duly education. Each village has a duly appointed Master of the Fools, whose duty is to fine persons for doing stu-pid things. One case, writes W. D. Allen, New York city, in Collier's Weekly, was that of a trusting soul who hired a known thief as his don key-boy. The next morning the boy and the donkey were missing. So the trusting soul was heavily fined.

Three men were obtained through the Mayor's Relief Committee office from the list of unemployed to do the actual work of painting the black patches and stencil the house numbers on them. On Wednesday a man called at the GRAPHIC office and gave the information that this work is being done in co-operation with the City Engineer's office to assure the correctness of the numbers. The requests for donations are made by the representative of the New York firm and he informed the GRAPHIC that the contributions have ranged from 25 cents to $1.00.

Yesterday the GRAPHIC inquired at the office of the Mayor's Relief Committee in City Hall regarding more details of this project. Information was given to the affect that the three Newton men who have been employed on this work receive 50 cents per hour and work 40 hours each week. Also that the New York man promoting this project had stated that receipts so far have not been favorable to making any contributions for this service.

The crack shots of the Providence police were the only target experts to score higher than Newton's representatives. Newton led among others the teams from the Boston and Metropolitan departments.

Permit Died With Newtonville Horse

Another complication has arisen in the controversy over Carmine Bringeri keeping a horse in a barn at 46 Farwell street, Newtonville. Mr. Bringeri operates a small farm at the above address and it is not practical to use a tractor on it. So, he has used a horse. The horse has to be stabled. When Bringeri applied for a permit to keep a horse in his barn a couple of years ago, Mrs. Della McDonald of 50 Farwell street objected. Mrs. McDonald has protested on other occasions regarding the alleged nuisance caused by the proximity of the stable and horse to her residence. Recently, Inspector House of the Health Department found that the horse for which Bringeri had obtained a permit to stable, died last winter and another horse has been kept on the old permit. Bringeri was informed he could not keep the replacement horse without getting a new permit. Mrs. McDonald has entered another ob-

Newton Man In Airplane Crash Has Close Call

With Fiancee and Pilot Gets Clear as Plane Explodes

The liquor and common victualler's licenses of the Walnut Spa at $22 Walnut st., Newton Centre, was restored this week by the Newton Licensing Board with the approval of the State Alcoholic Beverages Commission. The licenses had been revoked on August first when the local board discovered that the establishment was not properly equipped to dispense food. The discovery was made by members of the licensing board during a tour of inspection of such establishments throughout the city. The board has adopted the policy of requiring that restaurants listensed to sell liquor shall not subordinate the sale of food.

Following the revocation of the licenses, issued in the name of Lillian Cohen, daughter of Joseph Cohen who conducts the establishment alterations were made and the establishment equipped as a restaurant. The licenses were then restored after another inspection by members of the board. A Newton man, his fiancee, and the pilot of a biplane had a narrow es-cape from death or serious injury last Monday afternoon when the biplane crashed and burst into flames in the crashed and burst into flames in the woods near the Newburyport turnpike at Rowley. George Mosher of Rowley, owner and pilot of the plane, was taking John W. Shields of 12 Balcarres rd., West Newton, and the latter's flancee, Miss Ruth Vogel, research technician at the Yale University Medical School, for a flight from the landing field shortly after two o'clock. The pilot, who was uninjured, stated after the crash that on reaching an altitude of about one hundred feet the motor went bad. The plane failed to ascend farther, clipped off the top of a tall pine tree and then took a nose dive into the trees and woods. While descending Mr. Mosher shut off the ignition with the intention of avoiding a blaze, but in crashing the gas line or gas tank was punctured and the gasoline apparently dripped onto the exhaust pipe. In a moment the whole ship was a mass of flame Mr. Shieids had attempted to protect Miss Vogel from the impact of the crash and with Mr. Mosher leaped from the plane, escaping the resulting burst of flame by but a few feet.

The trio reached the Newburyport turnpike and Mosher summoned firemen by telephone from a nearby garage. The pilot was uninjured although slightly dazed from the crash. Mr. Shields suffered a slight cut on his forehead, a dislocated shoulder roods near the Newburyport turnpike

Inspects Schools Increase in Enrollment Is

Superintendent of Schools Julius E. Warren who arrived in Newton earlier this month to assume his position as successor to John Lund, made an inspection tour of the schools of the city on Wednesday. The School Department is preparing for the opening of the scholastic year on September 19th when it is estimated that approximately 12,000 pupils will be enrolled.

An increase of at least sixty children is anticipated in the Levi Warren Junior High School at West Newson as well as a considerable increase in the enrollment at the John Ward School in Newton Centre. It is hoped that the four-room addition now being made to the Frank A. Day Junior High School in Newtonville will be completed in time for the opening of the term. While it is not likely that the entire six-room addition at the Bigelow Junior High School in Newtonville will be completed by September 10th a portion of the new facilities will be available. though slightly dazed from the crash. Mr. Shields suffered a slight cut on his forehead, a dislocated shoulder and a general shaking up while Miss Vogel complained of a pain in her chest. The pair subsequently visited another flying field and took another flight, following out the custom of aviators in order to offset the after effects of such an experience. Mr. Shields, who is in the employ of the Moxie Company of Boston, and a former Jamaica Plain resident, has also had considerable experience as a pilot himself.

The damage to the plane was considerable although Mr. Mosher expected to be able to salvage the motor.

The defendant was arrested on Monday by Special Officer Charles C. Feeley as he left the Waltham court after being found not guilty of a similar charge.

Lawrence H. Hayward of the firm of L. H. Hayward, Inc., of Newton Corner testified that Dalessio had obtained articles valued at $9 at his store on July 7 and had failed to either pay for them or return them. Dalessio told Judge Bacon before whom he appeared that he represented the Hub Auto Parts Company when he obtained the goods and was shortly afterwards discharged. He further said that the articles remained at the establishment of his former employers. He offered to return the articles at once and the case was suspended for a short time until the return of the goods took place outside the courthouse.

GEORGE E. STUART

Word of the sudden death of former Street Commissioner word of the sudden death of former street Commissioner George E. Stuart was received in Newton on Tuesday of this week with deep grief by his many friends and acquaintances in all walks of life throughout the city. During his many years in the service of the city he had become known to many laborers. They knew him familiarly as "Uncle George." A little more than a month ago the esteem in which he was held was demonstrated by pagety a thousand who attended the testimonial onstrated by nearly a thousand who attended the testimonial dinner to him. An affair in which many who were unable to attend also shared. Mr. Stuart served the city faithfully for fifty-five years until his retirement the first of August. All Newton joins in mourning his death.

THE BANK HOLDUP

The enactment of a bank holdup in Newton Centre yesterday morning demonstrated clearly the efficiency of the bank's new alarm system and the efficiency of the Newton radio police patrol. While the holdup was planned and undoubtedly the cruising cars were on the watch for the call to proceed to Newton Centre the cars were performing their usual duties and in case of a real holdup would have reached the scene in a similar short space of time. With the first car arriving one minute and forty-six seconds from the broadcast and four minute and forty-six seconds from the broadcast and four others following within ten seconds there would have been little opportunity for real bandits to escape from the scene of the crime. The efficiency of the bank's alarm system is indicated in that three semplemes cannot deal the second seco dicated in that three employees sounded the alarm without detection. Further protection offered by proper police equipment minimizes the opportunities of bandits to escape. Newton is not a healthy place for bank bandits.

NON-REGISTERED VOTERS

Now is the time for all non-registered voters to perform a duty encumbent upon them if they would have a true voice in the conduct of public affairs. The Registrars of Voters are conducting the usual registration sessions at City Hall enrolling new voters for the state primary election to be held on September 20. Such residents will have this opportunity until the end of the month. While the election of public officials is not held until November the paramount question in the primaries is to select those candidates best fitted to hold the office under the political designation to which they have pledged themselves. It is of great importance in the conduct of public affairs to select the right candidates at the primaries. If you are not a registered voter get registered immediately and then plan to vote at the September primaries. vote at the September primaries.

BREAKING DOWN THE ZONING LAWS

The Planning Board has reported unfavorably on several The Planning Board has reported unfavorably on several petitions seeking to establish business zones near the new Worcester turnpike along Boylston street. The matter will come before the Board of Aldermen for action upon the petitions. The Board may or may not accept the adverse Planning Board recommendations. As we pointed out in these columns some weeks ago any attempt to break down the zoning laws should be strenuously opposed unless it is to the distinct advantage of the city. In recent years it has become the usual practice to build new trunk line highways away from congested areas. A lessening of zoning restrictions along such highways to create business zones there will only defeat the original purpose. Eventually we would have congested areas original purpose. Eventually we would have congested areas adjoining these highways and would then be compelled to build newer highways to again rid ourselves of many traffic hazards. While on the subject of the breaking down of zoning laws it would not be amiss to comment upon attempts to change restricted residence zones into zones less restricted. Newton is largely a city of single residences. In the past decade many people have come to Newton because of this fact and bemany people have come to Newton because of this fact and because the zoning ordinances have given them the security that their neighborhood will not be endangered by the encroachment of other types of dwellings which tend to decrease property values. Isolated attempts as well as general attempts have been made in the past to change the zones of certain properties. These attempts should be carefully studied and here again unless for the benefit of the community as a whole they should be promptly refused. The zoning ordinance properly upheld is be promptly refused. The zoning ordinance properly upheld is the greatest protection the property owner can have.

Auto Crashes Front Door in Midnight Call

Late Tuesday night, about an hour before midnight, John J. Mansfield and his family were awakened by the crash of an automobile which crashed into the front door of their home at 310 Commonwealth ave., Chestnut Hill. The automobile driven by Miss Mary F. McGlone of 20 Gerlald st., Brighton, was out of control when the accident happened. Fortunately for Miss McGlone and her companion, Miss Dorothy J. Kerr of Fuller st, Brighton, the owner of the car, they escaped injury other than a severe shaking up. In reporting to the police Miss McGlone said that she turned up the sidewalk to the house, thinking it a side street, in order to avoid a collision with a car which came out of Hammond st. After entering the walk she lost control of the car which kept on to the house, fifty feet back from the street line. The car mounted the front steps, crossed the porch, crashed through two sets of doors into the reception hall, coming to a stop against the home at 310 Commonwealth ave., stairway. Several pieces of wicker furniture and a small table in the hall were demolished as were the door frames which were broken off as the car crashed through.

French Short on Giants;

Big Men in Other Lands Giants have been known in England and Holland more than in any other from every country. France is short on giants—doctors think it is because the 'French do not eat much meat, notes a writer in the Kansas City notes a writer in the Kansas City Times. There was a French immigrant, however, reported in 1920, who was 8 feet 6 inches, weighed 368 pounds, and was reported to eat 24 eggs for breakfast. It was not asserted that he did it every morning or that he paid for them himself.

Great Britain tells great tales of glants and of those enormously obeec. The emperor Frederick the Great had a guard whose name is lost—he was 8 feet 3 inches. The New York Tribune tells us (1897) of two wonderful giants who came out of Ireland to London in the middle of the Eighteenth century, where their charm was worth solid money. Charles Byrne was 8 feet 8 inches, and enormously strong. He died at twenty-two, and was followed by Patrick Colter, whose vitals had gone to len'th but not stren'th, and who walked slowly, resting his hands on the shoulders of two stellars to so the soulders of two stellars to so the shoulders of two stellars to so the solid son the shoulders of two stellars to so the solid son the shoulders of two stellars to so the solid son the shoulders of two stellars to so the solid so the shoulders of two stellars to so the solid so the shoulders of two stellars to so the solid so the shoulders of two stellars to so the solid so the shoulders of two stellars to so the solid so the shoulders of two stellars to so the solid so the sol who walked slowly, resting his hands on the shoulders of two stalwarts who kept with him to hold him up. Michigan Waterfall Is

Somewhat Like Niagara

Michigan has the largest waterfall between Niagara and the Rocky mountains. Tahquamenon falls are in Luce county—named for a Detroit man—in the upper peninsula of Michigan, about 60 miles from St. Ignace and the Straits of Mackinac.

Many old legends cluster around falls and river, says a writer in the Detroit Free Press. The Tahquamenon is mentioned frequently in Longfellow's "Hiawatha." The Indian hero and his friend Kwasind cleared the river of its sunken logs and sandbars. Somewhere in the river bed, on the way to the falls, Kwasind lies burled after his fight with the otters.

The river acquired an added intercent the river of the river acquired an added inter-

The river acquired an added interest through the legend that Paul Bunyan was born about ten miles above the falls. Paul is the mythical hero of every northern Michigan lumber-

The great falls are between 200 and and the great rails are between 200 and 300 feet wide and nearly 50 feet high, with a heavy volume of water.

Like Niagara, the water cascades over a ledge beneath which there is a cavelike formation into which one may clamber behind the falls.

Garden of Eden

Garden of Eden

The origin of the various races of the world is a matter of mere speculation. Textbooks of ethnology mention different theories of the formation of races as the result of climatic and geographic conditions. The negrorace evidently developed in Africa, negroes being mentioned in Egyptian manuscripts as early as 2000 B. C. The most usual explanation of the location of the Garden of Eden is that it was in the modern Irak in Asia, between the rivers Euphrates and between the rivers Euphrates and Tigris, somewhere near the city of Babylon. The Britannica article on the subject says that the attempt to locate a mythological garden is bound to be attended by considerable diffi-culty, and all that can be safely said is that the story in its present form combines two traditions, one of which placed the garden in the far north, where according to Babylonian tradi-tion, the garden of the gods was to be found.

When lightning struck a certain cottonwood tree, in Halladay, Utah, it fell into the crotch of a neighboring tree in such a manner as to accomplish tree in such a manner as to accomplish a natural graft, Nature Magazine tells us. Persons wishing to prove the success of this grafting process conclusively cut off the top and bottom of the smaller tree, leaving only a 20-foot log lying in the crotch. For years the log has been showing beyond doubt that the graft was a genuine fusing of the two capillary systems by producing a heavy growth of branches. producing a heavy growth of branches

Between 1899 and 1920 in British omaliland, a fanatic called "The Mad Mullah" carried on a one-man war with Great Britain. Finally, one day, when he was in the desert with relatives and counselors, an airplane appeared in the sky. Never having seen one before, he told his party it was a messenger from Allah. The "messenger" dropped his message—a bomb—and killed nearly all of them. The Mullah escaped—but learned his leason.—Collier's Weekly.

The Lia Fail

The Lia Fail, or Stone of Destiny, is the name of the famous Stone of Scone, seated on which the ancient Scottish kings were crowned. Accord ing to tradition, it formerly was the pillow used by the patriarch Jacob, and possibly was brought to Scotland after the Crusades. It was kept in the Abbey church of Scone and in 1296 was removed by Edward I to England and is at present under the cord nation chair in Westminster Abbey

Curb Numbering Not a Project of New York Firm

Mr. Carrol McNulty, who was duly authorized to paint house numbers on the curbings in Newton has asked the GRAPHIC to clear up a possible misunderstanding arising out of an article in last week's issue of the GRAPHIC. In that article it stated that "this activity is being done under the auspices of Thomas F. Bowe of New York and his representative in Newton is Carroll McNulty of New York." Mr. McNulty states that he formerly was employed as a licensed civil engineer by Thomas F. Bowe in New York but for some time he has been working entirely for himself. He has been painting house numbers upon the curbings of streets in other cities prior to coming to Newton. Under Mr. McNulty's arrangement the house numbers are painted on the curb and then the householder is asked for a voluntary contribution but is under no obligation to respond. Mr. McNulty points out that three men were obtained from the Mayor's Relief Committee office from the unemployed lists to do the painting. For this work he pays them 50 cents per hour for a 40 hour week. The greater part of the receipts being used for labor Mr. McNulty believes that his work is of local benefit.

A drive against unauthorized solicitors was started last Saturday by the Newton police. Salvation Army headquarters in Boston informed the local police that no agents representing that organization have been assigned to solicit funds in Newton other than those authorized to collect the contents of coin boxes which the Salvation Army has placed in various public places throughout the city. Solicitors have been approaching Newton residents for contributions. One man who was found appealing for funds was picked up in Newton Centre Saturday shortly before noon. He wore a Salvation Army hat and insisted that he was an authorized collector but in view of the information from Salvation Army headquarters he was held for investigation. of Park ave. are spending a tew woods at Duxbury.

"You're too modest!"

Motorists who got the first G-3's put outmonths before the public announcement-say, "You're too modest!" Many of them report 50% to 100% more non-skid mileage. Why, then, do we insist on only 43%? Well, 43% is a definite test-car-proved figure. Very likely it is low for normal use-because the tests which established the 43% average were gruelling: cars speeding up to 50, jamming on brakes, mile after mile, day and night. Very likely most motorists will get more than 43% more non-skid mileage. But we'll string along with 43%-because it's plenty to deliver at no extra cost. Come see the tire that's the talk of the nation.

The accident occurred at the corner of Washington and Greenough sts. The car, owned by Nathan N. Sears of Wellesley and driven by Burton N. Firemen Have Half Hour Job Extinguishing Blaze

A spectacular fire in a large trench at Washington st. and Common-wealth are, West Newton, gave the Newton firemen a half-hour hard work on Tuesday morning. The blaze occurred when a blast of dynamite used by street department employees in the trench broke a 10-inch gas main and set the escaping gas afire. The flames reared high in the air and waster from two hose lines had little effect upon them until an emergency crew of the gas company shut off the gas supply in the main. The fire then subsided.

Raises Question Of Legality Of Licenses

City Solicitor Joseph W. Bartlett has been asked to rule on the question of granting temporary licenses for the sale of liquor at dances held in residential zones. The question was raised by a member of the Board of Aldermen who contends that as the zoning laws prohibit the operation of business in a residential zone the sale of beer, even for a temporary period, at the dances is a violation of the zoning ordinances.

The problem arose from the fact that the Licensing Commission has been issuing temporary licenses for the sale of beer in Forester's Hall on Pettee st., Newton Upper Falls. The licenses have been issued to groups conducting dances in the hall which is in the residential zone.

To Prosecute Purchasers of Stolen Goods

Sergeant Kenneth Chisholm of th Metropolitan Police at Riverside will prosecute several persons alleged to have purchased stolen goods from a youthful gang of plunderers. Last Friday in the Newton court an Auburndale youth was sentenced to the Shirley Industrial School on a charge of breaking, entering and larceny. He was arrested a week previous as the leader of a gang of youthful plunderers of stores and automobiles. Sergeant Chisholm will follow up the cases of those known to have purchased the goods on charges of receiving stolen property.

He also sought a writ of habeas ing stolen property.

He also sought a writ of habeas corpus to bring the boy from Shirley to the Waltham court this morning to use him as a witness against other members of his alleged gang who will be tried there. The police have recovered jewelry, radios, field glasses, cameras, a fishing reel and other articles stolen by the gang and sold. More than a score of thefts in Auburndale were attributed to the gang.

Renewal of Express License Referred Back to Committee

A special meeting of the Newton Board of Aldermen was held on Mon-day evening with fourteen members present. Several routine affairs were acted upon with the appointment of election officers as the principal mat-ter for which the meeting was called.

election officers as the principal mat ter for which the meeting was called.
Another matter, the renewal of an express license in Newton Upper Falls, F was the subject of considerable discussion and after Alderman John Temperley raised a point of law petaining to the zoning ordinance which the Aldermen deemed should be investigated the matter was referred back to the Committee on Franchises and License for further consideration.
The question revolves around a situation in which a person has been conducting a business in a residential zone as a "non-conforming use" and the building is moved to another location. Under these conditions is it legal for the person to operate the business in the same building. The licensee who held a legal permit to conduct an express business in a residential zone under the "non-conforming use" clause of the zoning ordinance is Willard L. McKenzie at 11
Anita Circle, Newton Upper Falls.
The Franchise and License Committee has reported favorably on the renewal of the license.
Alderman Temperley said that he had no particular objection to the renewal of the permit but desired that the point of legality be settled. He called attention to the fact that when

In the case of the school furniture the education committee was instructed to confer with school department officials. President Roy V. Collins expressed the opinion that the license could not legally be renewed if the house had been moved to a new location and at his suggestion the matter was referred back to the committee for further study.

Alderman Sydney Holden requested that the petition of Harris & Myers for a permit to relocate the pumps of the gasoline station at 90 Winchester st., Newton Highlands, be referred back to the same committee. He declared that his motive in delaying action on the petition was to make sure that "sidewalk" pumps would not result from the relocation. He further stated that as Winchester st. is a State Highway the city could impose no restrictions as to the location of the curbings, which would affect the position of the pumps. In order to carry out his plan he will seek the aid of State officials.

COACH SANBORN ISSUES CALL FOR NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL MEN

The football season is almost with The football season is almost with us again. During the past week a number of the high school squads in Greater Boston have begun practice sessions for the coming scholastic gridiron season. Coach Ralph M. Sanborn of the Newton High School Sanborn of the Newton High School football team has issued an early call for 75 candidates to report for their suits and equipment at the high school Wednesday morning, Sept. 5. The first practice session will be held on Thursday morning. This group of seventy-five candidates represent the pick of about 250 youths who signed up for football last spring. Suits and practise sessions for the remainder of this number will not be given a thought until school begins on September 10th. At that time with some four hundred or more new boys coming into school from junior high schools and from other schools a share of this will have an interest in the support. the support.

Before the school session is a few days old it is quite probable that Coach Sanborn and his assistants will be handling a record number of youths. The coaching staff will re-main the same as last year with Coach Sanborn and Assistant Coach Charlie Considine handling the varsity squad. Considine, centre on the sity squad. Considine, centre on the famous Iron-man Brown University eleven of several years ago, will devote his attention to the development of the line while Coach Sanborn will endeavor to develop a backfield and weld the whole into a smooth working eleven. Jeff Jones, head baseball coach, will again serve as coach of the Intermediate varsity squad while Howard Ferguson and Daniel Willard will handle the Junior Varsity A and B groups respectively as in 1933. Unless Coach Sanborn departs from the method of recent years he will make less Coach Sanborn departs from the method of recent years he will make an early cut in the varsity squad, reducing it to a small unit easily handled and then drew upon the Intermediate varsity squad as the ability of the candidates and the need for replacements make advisable.

The great interest of Newton youths in football this year which makes the record squad seem probable is largely traced to the graduation of a number of the veteran performers of last of the veteran performers of last year's eleven. But seven letter men, six of them linemen, are available at the opening of the season. An-other letterman will be on hand but hind them should have an exceptional year.

Paul Treannie is the only letterman returning for backfield duties. He showed flashes of talent last year although greatly handicapped by inexperience. He is talented in several ways, a good runner, good blocker and a quick thinker. Around him Coach Sanborn may able to develop a backfield that will come through with the polished offence necessary to win football games. The graduation of such players as Capt. Charlie Flagg, "Red" McCarthy and other good backfield men is Coach Sanborn's greatest handicap.

Church, W. Newton

Facing the tragic drought of the past summer and the recent extraseasonal stagnation in business, the Rev. John Shade Franklin announces for his Labor Sunday message at the Lincoln Park Baptist Church the subject, "When Everything Goes Wrong." Believing that we are about entering upon a great deliverance, the West Newton pastor will speak in the spirit of the text, "For I reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us."

At the West Newton community evening service, beginning its sixth season this Sunday, Mr. Franklin will preach on the subject, "Man Among Men." Picturing Jesus as a friendly comrade of all men, rich and poor alike, this sermon seeks to share again the truths he lived.

Seats are free at the Lincoln Park Baptist Church, "The Home of Friendly Cheer," and the public is cordially invited to both of these services.

MURRAY CHOOSES RAWSON

Water Commissioner Joseph J. Murray, former Aldermanat-large from Ward 7, is by custom granted the privilege of naming his choice of the man to take over his aldermanic duties. It is reported that George E. Rawson is Mr. Murray's choice and that the nomination will be made at the next regular meeting of the Board on September 10. The selection of Mr. Rawson will meet with the general approval of residents of the ward as will meet with the general approval of residents of the ward as well as the entire city. For some years Mr. Rawson has been an active figure in local politics. While in many cases much of this activity has been performed in a quiet way, with little noise and flag-flying, it nevertheless has been extremely effective. Incidentally in the many years we have known Mr. Rawson we have never known him to make a decision pragrating local. have never known him to make a decision regarding local affairs which did not turn out to be to the distinct advantage of the interests of the community. He is one of those rare figures who keep politics on a high plane, who loves to figure in politics, and one whose judgment is exceptionally keen. LABOR DAY

It is anticipated that there will be the usual congestion of automobile traffic over the coming Labor Day week-end. Automobilists by the hundreds and the thousands will be returning from summer vacations or from week-end trips over the threeday holiday. Ryan has issued warnings to drivers to use more than usual care. Crowded highways are further made dangerous by possible wet and slippery roadways or hot and dusty conditions. FOOTBALL TIME IS HERE

Fall and the football season is nearly upon us. Candidates for the school football team will begin practice next week. Prospects for a winning season are none too bright. While everyone likes to see the home team win it is needless to point out that victory is not the only aim of sport. Sport for sport's sake develops the individual—teaches him to lose graciously when his opponent is the better man—teaches him that his part in the game must be perfect in order to make the team function as a game must be perfect in order to make the team function as a unit. Newton sports followers will not lose a great deal of sleep if the team does not have a perfect record. What Newton wants, win, lose, or draw, is a team that will have a high ideal of sportsmanship—will try its best and will take its trimmings standing up.

Tells Judge Boards Are Hard

Joseph F. Pendergast, 24, of Chestnut st., West Newton, objected to high bail set by Judge Bacon in the Newton court on Monday saying, "Your Honor, use a little judgment. Those boards in the cells are hard." Nevertheless, Judge Bacon set bail at $2500 and his case was continued until Tuesday. He was arraigned on a charge of the theft of an automobile and a tire and also charged with operating after his license had been revoked. The car, owned by Archibald G Barron of 111 Hyde st., Newton Highlands, was taken by Pendergast, ostensibly to be polished. He failed to return the car Saturday night and Barron reported the machine stolen. The car was sighted by the Belmont police on Beech st. of that town and was overtaken by Patrolmen Fores, and Praecop of the Belmont force after a chase to Watertown. Pendergast was then turned over to Sergeant Sheridan and Patrolmen W. Maloney and Kerrivan of the Newton police.
